

BIO

Jane R. Lewis, L.C.S.W., is a Training and Supervising Analyst and Senior Faculty Member at the American Institute for Psychoanalysis (AIP) and Senior Faculty Member at the Training and Research in Self Psychology Foundation (TRISP) in New York City. She was founder and director of the Karen Horney Clinic Eating Disorders program from 1990-2000. Her original psychoanalytic research paper on hair-pulling won an National Advancement for Psychoanalysis (NAAP) Gradiva Award. Her publications include those in the International Journal of Psychoanalytic Self Psychology (IJSPS). She is a frequent presenter at both the International Association for Psychoanalytic Self Psychology (IAPSP) and the International Association for Relational Psychotherapy and Psychoanalysis (IARPP) conferences. She is currently in private practice in New York City and specialized in the treatment of trauma.